Q: Query for all record where 'id' exists in another table I am trying to get all records where the id from an object of type ticket on my ticket table exists in the corresponding object of type ticket on the ticket2 table. Table 1 Table 2 There could be many columns shared in Table 1 and Table 2 and ultimately only one record will be selected for each record in the ticket table that has a corresponding match in the ticket2 table. How can I do this in the most efficient way? A: What you want is a LEFT JOIN. Something like this: select t.* from Table1 t left join Table2 t2 on t2.id = t.id; You can change the where clause of the query as needed. 1cb139a0ed
