You should be iterating through the strings. You shouldn't touch the strings that you have retrieved. $.getJSON( "", function( data ) { for( var string in data.images ) { var images = data.images[string]; console.log( images ); $( '#avatar'

The first part is good, I have a similar string at the end, but the space between the start and the text is different. My question is, how can I make the part before the text in the string be the same? A: Can be done like this: str = str.replace(/^.+?/, ""); This replaces all characters before a space with an empty string. If you only want to remove this from lines that don't start with the number, you could use this: str = str.replace(/^(.+?)$/ , '$1'); The present invention relates to a new and distinct cultivar of Liriope, botanically known as Liriope spicataxalata, and hereinafter referred to by the name 'SHAMPRA'. The new Liriope plant is a product of a planned breeding program conducted by the Inventor in Hikone, Shiga, Japan. The objective of the breeding program is to create new outwardly spreading Liriope plants with numerous attractive flowers. The new Liriope plant originated from a cross-pollination made by the Inventor in March, 2004 in Hikone, Shiga, Japan of a proprietary selection of Liriope spicataxalata identified as code number 3314, not patented, as the female, or seed, parent with a proprietary selection of Liriope spicataxalata identified as code number 2092, not patented, as the male, or pollen, parent. The new Liriope plant was discovered and selected by the Inventor as a single flowering plant within the progeny of the stated cross-pollination in a controlled environment in Bonsall, Calif. in April, 2005. Asexual reproduction of the new Liriope plant by cuttings in a controlled environment in Bonsall, Calif. since April, 2005, has shown that the unique features of this new Liriope plant are stable and reproduced true to type in successive generations.
