Mitru Legendele Olimpului (Vol 2) Eroii Pdf. The invention relates to a method of making a catalyst composite useful for converting exhaust gases emitted from automotive engines, and to a catalyst composite. Recent advances in automotive technology have been accompanied by stricter environmental requirements. The most fundamental and critical regulations relating to air pollution concerns mainly the amount of nitrogen oxides emitted by automotive engines. Nitrogen oxides, which are principally constituted by nitric oxide and nitrogen dioxide, are discharged into the atmosphere during the combustion of fossil fuels in automotive engines. The emission of nitrogen oxides (NO_x) is reduced by reducing the formation of NO_x during the combustion process and by reducing the amount of NO_x which is emitted upon oxidation. NO_x is generated during the combustion process as follows: EQU $3/2 \text{ NO} + \text{O} \cdot \rightarrow \text{NO}_2$ wherein the nitric oxide is reduced to nitrogen dioxide (NO₂) by means of the catalytic action of the catalyst. There are two basic methods used for decreasing the amount of NO_x emitted from engines. These methods are known as "lean-burn and rich-burn" in the art. The term "lean-burn" refers to a combustion process in which the molar ratio of air to the fuel (A:F) is greater than the stoichiometric value of A:F. Lean-burn combustion produces maximum combustion efficiency but results in the emission of considerably large amounts of NO_x, so that this combustion mode is not practical for the control of NO_x

Q: Call functions of a class from another class for execution I have two classes: class1 and class2. Class1 class1(class-B class-A) { // Code public: class-B(class-A* parent, /some params/); } Class2 class2(class-C class-B) { class-C(class-B* parent, /some params/); } Now i want to execute some class-B function in class2 so that it calls class-B function in class1. I also want to pass the parent class as parameter for class-C constructor. How can i make this? A: You can use the virtual function toCall() that is there to be used in the base class by overriding it. Something like this: class1.h #include "classB.h" class1() { public: classB(classA* parent, /some params/) : _classA(parent) {}; virtual void callAB(); // and your other members }; classB.h #include
