For those of you who are interested in the stats, here's an abbreviated list of my own stats for the months of November and December. As you can see, I have one less shirt than I did in October. I know I can do better than that! I have also gotten rid of most of my dress shoes which is always a good thing for my feet. I need to stop shopping and start decluttering as part of my New Year's Resolution. I'm a firm believer that the less stuff you have in your home, the more room you have to create and to be creative. Q2: What's your closet like? This question came from my niece who I interviewed and blogged about back in June. After the post, I received many comments from people asking her what her closet looked like and what she liked to wear. It got me thinking... I have a lot of clothes... but do I really know what I like? I made a list of e79caf774b

How to fix missing links on the internet, needed to view family photos SINGAPORE - They started out as a grass-roots movement in 2007 to fight for legal access to computer games for those with gambling addictions. Now, the foundation of the Singapore Gamblers Support Association (SGSA) is set to receive a full-fledged grant from the gambling industry. Roughly 300 SGSA members attended a meeting last night to discuss the grant, according to Stefan Wood, chair of the SGSA. There was also a video presentation about the organisation. "We were very successful in raising the sum of money, so we are over the moon with the latest news," Mr Wood, who is also a member of the Foundations and Non-Profit Management Association of Singapore, said. A Ministry of Community Development, Youth and Sports spokesman said the ministry aims to award the SGSA SGSA with SGSA were initially formed in November 2007, and are affiliated with Singapore Gambling Coalition. Members are drawn from various professional backgrounds, including teachers, doctors, business people and people with gambling problems. They meet once a month to learn about new gambling-related issues and pass on their experiences to each other and in doing so, they learn the crucial importance of having a strong sense of self-esteem."We've received some great support and community support. We are very grateful and overwhelmed by the funding we have received," Mr Wood, who is the chief executive officer of consultancy company e-flux. "It is a great day." He added that the SGSA will use the money for future projects, including getting the word out on the dangers of problem gambling. sgsa 7/16/2014 . With data from China's National Bureau of Statistics, the number of Internet users in China increased by an estimated 50 million over the past six years to 1.1 billion. The number of people accessing the internet through PCs remained steady at nearly 350 million, while total mobile phone users increased to almost 1.2 billion. But although there was a marked increase in PC users, mobile phones became the dominant way to access the internet in China. The proportion of Internet users who have access to the Internet through a mobile phone reached more than 80 percent in 2013, up from 68.8 percent in 2009. The report also showed that internet users in China are getting younger. In 2009, 17.4
