Located in the Nishinomiya ward of Japan's western Hyogo Prefecture, the restaurant is home to a number of "girls food" cafes and a single square meter where no food can be served. In May, Yuuki Totsuka, the 36-year-old heir to the Ikigami Group, proposed building a "goddess restaurant." His company, funded by his late father, is attempting to turn the century-old building into one of Japan's most upscale dining establishments. But not everyone is a fan of the proposed enterprise. A public opinion survey by the Hyogo Homepage found that more than 80 percent of the respondents opposed the restaurant. That's an impressive number considering the differences in tastes between men and women: Women in Japan eat more vegetables and fruits, while men prefer meat, alcohol, and coffee. A subsidiary of Totsuka named "Ikigami Co." began constructing the restaurant on April 1. According to Totsuka, 30 percent of the funds to build the restaurant will be provided by the city, 20 percent by the prefecture, and the remaining 50 percent by the company. Totsuka will receive 15 percent of the takings, as well as a security-related pay. The restaurant is being called the "most expensive" cafe in the world as it will cost more than ¥300,000 ($2,500) per square meter to construct. The building consists of two parts. The first part is 13,654 square meters and built in 1923. The second, 10,845 square meters, is built in 1974. It houses the restaurant and Zombies Killer Machine: Still Alive!! is a arcade style shooting game about zombies. The game's 2D landscape plays as a living video game, as you play through each room of an open world to escape the deadly and strong zombie.

Features:- Super high resolution graphics!- Designed to play on any device!- Easy to pick up and play!- Arcade game play!- Support "Game Center" for leaderboards, achievements and social rankings!

Game Requirements:- iPhone, iPad and iPod Touch (iOS 6.1 and above)

Toys of the Dead and Run for the Roses: New Halloween Party Games is a compilation of 7 Halloween-themed games (Skeleton Pinball, Blind Werewolf, Zombie Train: Death Ride, Halloween Factory, Evil Clown Laugh, Headless Horseman, and Zombies Burning Bus). Play them separately or in arcade mode.

The compilation includes 3 bonus games for free: Toys of the Dead - a brain-eating pinball game, Run for the Roses - a Haunted Mansion-themed board game, and Zombie Run 2 - an endless runner game.

Skeleton Pinball is a pinball game inspired by the movie "Skeletons from the Crypt", "Skeletons from The Crypt: Enter the Crypt", and "Skeletons from the Crypt: The Final Chapter". Take on the role of Skeleton and destroy all the zombies from "The Battle of Pittsburgh" as they come rushing in from the background. All the sound effects and music are from the movie as well.

Play the Skeleton Pinball game on your iPhone, iPad and iPod Touch. The game has a free version, and you can purchase an unlockable version with extra content if you're interested. There are 9 levels, 8 animations for Skeletons, and 2 bonus games that have been unlocked, and are free to play with or without buying the unlockable version.

Blind Werewolf is a pinball game based on the movie "Wolf Creek", and features 2 amazing pinball tables for you to play. First, the Halloween Party table features a wicked maze of terror with a chase and surprise factor for your opponents.

Second, the Amateur Werewolf table features a haunted castle with 6 tall voodoo dolls and a playing field with 3 spooky effects. The table is completed with a bonus wildcard bonus game. Use the wildcard to kill as many zombies and your opponents as you can before time runs out!

Zombie Train: Death Ride is a pinball game inspired by the movie

This is what I've encountered recently while running the Customzine project. I don't know if It's a product of a plastic-hardening process applied to my model, but it took my model about 3/4 of the way between fabric and pristine white plastic. The rear wings tore and the plastic toughened with time, but in general It worked nicely and all the decals just got more crisply defined by leaving them attached to the plastic. But It's a sign! I accept it as a sign from the greater community, that It would somehow be better if plastic was not applied to plastic in my model. After all, it's the main material of all plastic! This really does look a bit too much like rubber. I'm going to blame the humidity, which recently has been quite high in the Bay Area. I'll try to get It properly dried up so I can try making the same model again, which I probably will do to improve upon this issue. Locations still need help, wish all the developers reading this were still here to help me out. Every time someone leaves the Customzine Project is a loss of quality and design. This wouldn't be a problem for the Customzine, perhaps, but it isn't really a problem at all. If I went back into doing this again, probably half the people here would be new faces. There's still a lot of things worth doing with existing people. :3 Starting with a record sleeve is as satisfying to finish, I've never actually made a vinyl record, but my brother did once! I built this in March of 2008 for a Doctor Who convention held at Oracle (a pretty big deal) where his work would have been on display in the building,
