

A: I found the solution of my problem. I am posting it here in hope of helping others. I was recently scammed on a site and someone had uploaded videos that I had my credit card information on. I then had to change my password, and I ended up losing all my stored credit cards information. I then had to order a new credit card from the bank, and luckily I still had a bill with my information on it. After I got my new credit card I added it on a site, and then another scammer added my info to their site. Then I went to my back up site and confirmed that my new credit card info was there too. So basically, your credit card info could be anywhere on the internet, and it's up to you to confirm that the info you have is on a trustworthy site. Keep in mind, before you get any new info from a site, make sure you log out, and/or use a different browser, and/or delete cookies in your browser and/or security software. I'm sorry that this happened to you, and that it is a little scary.
