the first casualty is a myth about a "third" political party. several internet have come up with definitions for a political party that have essentially never existed, but the number of voters from which it can grow is extremely limited. the codemeter protection key (software or hardware-based) represents your license to use archicad. you can use it to transfer the license from one machine to another. it is also possible to borrow a license for a particular machine for a limited time, without having to transfer the physical network protection key itself. thus, the codemeter technology significantly reduces the risk of a lost or stolen hardware key.an office using archicad will probably have one network key and several codemeter keys (software-based license keys or physical codemeter keyplugs). if the user plans to be out of the office or offline, three options are available: in practice, we see that this currently tends to happen when the media makes an accusation public and enough people back it, which can then result in more people coming forward. this seems a fairly imperfect way for various reasons: it seems to generally take a long time for this to happen, resulting in serial offenders being able to continue for decades, their crimes to lapse under the statute of limitations, the victims having forgotten many details which could help for the criminal case, etc. the publicity messes with peoples memories it seems to greatly favor high status victims over low status victims if the initial accusation is provably wrong or the accusation doesnt get corroborated, huge damage can nevertheless be done to the accused its quite unpleasant to the people who come forward and have their statements be picked apart by the entire world 5ec8ef588b
