

i want to be normal. i am not. normal. it is okay. i do not want to be okay. i am not okay. i have not been okay for a very long time now. no one is happy. no one is okay. i am not with my family, i am not with my kid. i want to feel. i want to smell. i want to feel alive. i want to taste. this is normal to me now. please tell me that i am normal to you. please tell me that it is not okay. tell me that it is normal. i can't be normal if i am not okay. most important results: i guarantee that you will feel 10 times better in six weeks. i guarantee that you will be able to sleep every night. i guarantee that your stress levels will be at a very low level, and you will be able to look at life as it is, not just as you are. i guarantee that you will be normal again. most of the marketing literature that is sent to your email accounts, as well as the advertisements on tv and radio, are designed to make people buy what they want, and that way life goes on as usual. the marketing writers are well aware that most of us will go on to ignore the information and simply carry on with life. they are aware that most people are living unaware of the reality of this system. only in the moments of distress do we realize how helpless we are, and how we must do something to fix it. the same has been true in my life. my entire life has been a struggle to overcome the control of this system that has befouled my life, and i must find a way to fight back, to take back my life from the invisible hand of the oligarchs that rule the world. only then will we have a chance at life in the world that we have built for ourselves. we have to come to this conclusion to win this battle of life. and only when we do can we raise our children in peace, and be free once more. i no longer want to raise my children in a system that dominates them and makes their lives a painful struggle. only when we start taking responsibility for our own lives, only when we realize that capitalism is a system that oppresses us instead of liberating us, and only when we take control of it ourselves, will we know true freedom. this is what i found in my journey of discovery into this system. and i cannot wait to tell the world what i found, so that we can all be free again.
