[A comparative study of the action of dibucaine and bupivacaine on the period of the cardiac action potential and contraction of the isolated guinea pig papillary muscle]. The effects of dibucaine and bupivacaine on the action potentials of the isolated guinea-pig papillary muscle, under isometric conditions, were studied. Both local anaesthetics depressed the amplitude and the velocity of the contraction. The time course of the effects of bupivacaine was similar to that of dibucaine, however, the duration of the action of bupivacaine was shorter than that of dibucaine. On the other hand, the action potential plateau was prolonged at a dose of bupivacaine of 10^{-4} M, while, at a dose of dibucaine of 0.1-0.5 mM, the duration of the plateau was decreased, the duration of repolarization decreased and the tension of the preparations was increased. The effects of the two local anaesthetics were also studied on the action potentials and on the contraction elicited by 2-deoxyglucose, lactic acid and Ca^{++} in the presence of isoprenaline. The dissociation was found between the effects of the two drugs on the plateau of the action potential, and between the effects of the drugs on the amplitude, the duration and the tension of contraction elicited by lactic acid, 2-deoxyglucose and Ca^{++} . Bupivacaine inhibits the Ca^{++} channels, while dibucaine inhibits the Na/K pump. The difference between the two drugs in these effects was also found. A look at some performance and usability improvements in the Major Update 17.7. The release notes mention the improvements to the in-game BattleArmor, which now affect the physics of the Armored Car, Tank Destroyer and Tank. While tanks have been studied in depth over time, much about the Panther tanks under their Panther-A configuration has been known for almost half a century. Still, you can find an unknown portion of the performance benchmark and compare your stats to others:
